Bar Wants TV Banned From Supreme Court

LANSING (AP)—A committee of the State Bar of Michigan recommended today that the State Supreme Court ban the television of court proceedings.

The committee on professional and judicial ethics proposed that state judicial canons be broadened to forbid television cameras in court rooms, except for naturalization ceremonies.

The canons now forbid taking photographs during court sessions and radio broadcasting as detracting from the dignity of the courts and as distracting witnesses.

This and other committee recommendations will be presented to the State Bar Convention in Detroit Sept. 24.

Another committee recommended higher salaries for state and county courts, all at state expense.

The committee advocated unification of the State Supreme Court and the circuit courts, with all salaries paid by the state. It proposed to pay Supreme Court justices $25,000 a year and circuit judges a minimum of $20,000 a year. Supreme Court terms should be extended from six to eight years, it said.

Supreme Court justices now get $18,500 and circuit judges $9,000 from the state, plus county contributions. The circuit judge pay ranges from $10,000 to $8,500.

A special committee urged salaries for federal judges be raised from $15,000 a year to $25,000.

Planes To Carry 3-Cent Letters

WASHINGTON (AP)—The ordinary letter, handled over the years by pony, overland coach, train and truck, will soon be flying between some large cities in a major experiment with speedier service.

Postmaster General Summerfield announced to a news conference late Tuesday that he has made arrangements to inaugurate the test service for surface first class mail between New York and Chicago and between Chicago and Washington, subject to Civil Aeronautics Board approval.

The items which he proposes to put into the air would include the standard 3-cent letter, the 2-cent postcard and other "preferential mail" having a vital time value, such as newspapers.

Summerfield estimated that delivery times between the three cities initially involved could be cut by as much as 24 hours. He said that if the experiment works out as well as he expects it to, a similar shift from train and truck to planes will be made elsewhere in the country.

The idea is to buy from established airlines space which otherwise would be empty because of flight cancellations or less-than-capacity bookings of their passenger and cargo space.

The rates, Summerfield said, will amount to about what the government now pays railroads.

Reds Accused Of Holding Back 3,404 Allied POWs

U. S. Experiment, Aid To Europe, Getting Results

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harold E. Stassen, director of foreign aid, at a news conference attached a quiet footnote to one of the tremendous experiments in history.

Stassen had called the conference Tuesday not to talk about Europe but to discuss his reorganization of the Foreign Operations Administration.

He had begun his career in the Eisenhower administration as director of the old Mutual Security Agency, which handled foreign aid.

Making Progress
For the sake of economy and to dovetail some of this country's foreign aid programs, President Eisenhower had asked Congress to let him change MSA to FOA and to bring two other agencies under its tent. These were the Point Four program — giving foreign countries technical assistance, such as in health and farming — and an agency which provided Point Four guidance to South American countries.

Congress let Eisenhower go ahead. Stassen became head of FOA.

It was hardly more than a routine news conference until, near the end, Stassen was asked if he thought this country would have to continue giving economic aid to Western Europe after next July 1.

Stassen said he thought very little, if any, because Western Europe has been making such good progress. He said production is 4 per cent higher than any time in Western Europe's history.

Started By Marshall
Six years ago when Secretary of State George C. Marshall suggested his plan of economic aid for Europe there was a shock of excitement here and in Europe.

Marshall suggested the help to get Europe up off its back, economically, and stop the rush of communism.

No one knew whether the Marshall Plan would work. If it didn't, if Europe went to pieces, Communism had clear sailing. After six years, Stassen was able to say this country's aid for Europe had worked very well, indeed.

Big H-Bomb Explosion Predicted Next Year
BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Sun says the United States may explode a "fully developed" H-bomb next year.

The paper's military correspondent in Washington, Mark S. Watson, wrote that as a result of recent technical developments "there now is in prospect, in 1954, a testing at Bikini Atoll of a fully developed hydrogen-bomb, the world's first true weapon of that type."

In Washington, the Atomic Energy Commission had no comment.

Liquor Stores Run Short Of Funds; May Have To Close Oct. 1
LANSING (AP)—A threat to close state liquor stores for lack of funds was being aired in the Capitol today.

State Controller Robert F. Steadman told the finance committee of the State Administrative Board that the State Liquor Control commission would have to close stores unless funds are allotted by Oct. 1.

Steadman said the Legislature did not give the commission sufficient money to operate its merchandising and licensing divisions for the full year on their present level.

He said George J. Burke, commission chairman, balked at reducing expenditures for the October-December quarter on the grounds that Rep. T. Jefferson Hoxie (R-St. Louis), a member of the Ways and Means Committee, had promised him a deficiency appropriation to make up the shortage when the Legislature returns next year.

Finance committee members said they would not authorize Burke to overspend his second quarter allocation "on the word of one or two legislators."

Burke told reporters the legislative grant would be insufficient because the Civil Service Commission reallocated all employees of the merchandising division after appropriations were set, boosting costs $125,000 a year.

Steadman said Harold Kinder, commission business manager, was prepared to close liquor stores to cut costs if the controversy is not settled by Oct. 1.

The controller reminded the committee such a step could reduce the state's income from liquor sales

Growing Hurricane May Be Menace To Florida Coast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A hurricane containing winds of 95 miles an hour sprang up suddenly today near Turks Island, 800 miles south-east of Miami, and offered an immediate threat to the Bahamas Islands.

Grady Norton, chief storm forecaster in the Miami Weather Bureau, said the swiftly developing disturbance "is in a bad position as far as Florida is concerned."

The hurricane, called Dolly for the fourth letter in the alphabet, is in the embryo stage "but is developing very fast," said Norton.

Telephone Rate Boost Cleared

LANSING (AP)—The way was clear today for the collection of $1,100,000 in rate increases by the General Telephone Co.

The State Supreme Court refused to grant a stay of execution of an Ingham County Circuit Court which approved collection of the rate boosts.

The stay was asked by the Michigan Public Service Commission pending a Supreme Court appeal of the Circuit Court ruling.

At the same time, the high court granted a company request that the commission be temporarily forbidden to begin hearings on its own motion to reduce the rate increase to $660,000 annually. These hearings were scheduled to begin today.

Court attaches said the double action by the high court removed all barriers to collection of the full amount.

The rate reduction hearings will be suspended at least until Oct. 13 when the commission was ordered to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent.

A ruling was expected next Tuesday on the commission's application to the Supreme Court for leave to appeal the Circuit Court order.

Escape Of Jailed Soviet Police Boss Reported By Paper
SINGAPORE (AP)—The pro-nationalist Chinese newspaper Chung Shing Jit Pao published today a Hong Kong report that Lavrenty Beria, Soviet interior minister and head of the Soviet secret police, escaped nine days after he was imprisoned.

The report, which it said reached Hong Kong from the Chinese mainland, added that Beria was arrested four hours later and lodged in a heavily guarded Army prison.

It said close friends of the dismissed police boss arranged the escape.

Chung Shing also printed a report, quoting a Peiping source, that after his arrest Beria made an unsuccessful attempt at suicide.

Truman's Political Digs Answered By Republican Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans snapped back today at Democratic criticisms of foreign policy and at former President Truman's advice to his party members to quit supporting Eisenhower administration programs.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) said Truman's Labor Day assertion in Detroit that the time as come when the Democrats should "really go after that outfit down there in Washington and get 'em" represented an "entirely political reaction."

Contrast To Hoover
"It is a patent indication that the ex-President from Missouri is far more interested in his party's success in November 1954 than he is in the welfare of the country,"

Dirksen declared. "It is in sharp contrast to the public service being rendered by another ex-President, Herbert Hoover."

In a separate interview, Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) struck back at a statement by former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois that "book burning, McCarthyism and insistence upon conformity in thought" are damaging American prestige abroad.

"Stevenson still dislikes anyone who exposes the Communist infiltration in the old Acheson-Truman Regime," McCarthy asserted.

"His statements conclusively prove the wisdom of the American people when they rejected his bid for the presidency last fall," McCarthy said.

Sounds Like Politics
Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, said, in an interview with Newsweek magazine that the United States needs "a clearer and more consistent policy" in foreign affairs.

"Our allies are bewildered when we warn them of the Communist menace one day and slash our defense budget the next."

Stevenson also complained that Democratic participation in foreign policy affairs had been "utterly obliterated" by the Republicans.

Chairman Wiley (R-Wis.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Stevenson's criticisms of present foreign policies "sounds like politics to me."

"The governor's remarks don't add any strength to our bipartisan foreign policy," Wiley observed.

"We can disagree at home but when we leave the shore all Americans unite in what is defined as American foreign policy."

Hornsby, manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, testified at the inquest that she had been depressed and nervous and believed she was losing her sight, voice and hearing.

"I think she took her own life," the 57-year-old baseball manager told the jury. "She feared she would be put in an institution. I told her that as far as I was concerned that would never happen."

College Editors To Visit Russia
NEW YORK (AP)—Four college newspaper editors are reported making plans to accept Soviet promises of visas for travel in Russia.

Zander Hollander of Brooklyn, feature editor of the University of Michigan Daily, said Tuesday night he and the three others are making arrangements for the trip.

He said the others are Natalie Becker of Brooklyn, editor of the Vassar College Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Miscellany Arts; Daniel Berger, editor of the Oberlin (Ohio) College Review; and Mark Edmond, editor of the University of Colorado Daily.

Two other students, also promised visas by the Soviet Embassy in Washington, have not indicated their intentions. The two are Arthur Brown of Mishawaka, Ind., editor of the University of Chicago Maroon, and Kenneth F. Rystrom of Maynard, Neb., editor of the daily paper at the University of Nebraska.

Winner Of $307,500 Goes Back To Work
CHICAGO (AP)—Herbert J. Idle, who won a $307,500 prize contest three weeks ago, returned to his $420 a month city job Tuesday after a vacation.

"I'm going to work like I always have," Idle told his superiors in the City Water Department, where he is a junior engineer. Idle, 55, and a city employee for 32 years, says he wants to work two or three years and then retire and devote his time to writing religious music.

Income taxes may cut his net winnings in the puzzle contest to about $70,000.

Communists Fail To Account For 944 Americans

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The U. N. Command today charged the Communists held back 3,404 Allied war captives — including 944 Americans — and demanded a prompt accounting for each man.

The chief of the Allied delegation to the Korean Armistice Commission told newsmen the Reds had better account for the missing men — "or else." He did not amplify.

Prompt Action Demanded
Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan turned over a carefully documented list to the Reds at an 86 minute meeting of the Armistice Commission. He warned the Communist officers:

"We now demand that you return these people to us or account to us for each of these individuals. . . . We demand prompt action."

The Far East Command said the list would not be released here, but in Washington. There, officials said the list might not be available for two days.

May Comment Later
The Communists said they reserved "the right to comment later," then countered with a demand for the return of 27,000 North Koreans released from Allied camps last June on orders from South Korea's President Syngman Rhee.

Bryan dismissed the Red demand and said:

"It is self evident we are not forcibly holding these people."

The list, in addition to the Americans, included 2,410 South Koreans, 19 British, 9 Australians, 8 South Africans, 3 Canadians, 3 Belgians, 5 Turks, 2 Colombians and 1 Greek.

Bryan told the Reds the list "exceeds the number whom you have stated do not desire repatriation by about 3,100."

The Communists say about 300 Koreans and 20 non-Koreans do not want to return to their homelands.

Plenty Of Work Awaits Congress
WASHINGTON (AP)—House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass.) today ruled out the possibility of a special session of Congress later this year but conceded "there will be plenty of work next year."

Visiting the Capitol for a few days, he told newsmen earlier that of a special session hinged on the belief the administration might regard it as necessary for Congress to boost the national debt limit, which it refused to do just before adjourning last month. Since then, however, administration fiscal experts have indicated that the present statutory debt limit of 275 billion dollars won't be reached this year.

Martin emphasized he does not believe Congress will renew next year the excess profits tax extended this year until next Jan. 1. And he said he is sure the presently scheduled 10 per cent cut in income taxes will become effective Jan. 1 without any attempt being made to halt it.

"Those taxes are going off for sure," he said.

Hog Caller Wins Again In Detroit
DETROIT (AP)—A 73-year-old Washtenaw County farmer is the sweetest hog caller of them all at the Michigan State Fair.

W. P. (Pete) Hellner of Northfield Township says he owes his fourth successive hog calling championship to "sincerity."

"It's sincerity that counts," he said after his triumph Tuesday. "They know it means food when I call. They know I want them to eat hearty and grow fast."

It was Hellner's 10th victory in 28 years of porker calling.

This was Gov. Williams Day at the fair. As guest of honor he was to tour the livestock and agricultural buildings and preside over the auctioning of the grand champion steer, lamb and market pig.

Premier Mossadegh To Get Public Trial
TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The newspaper Farman, quoting "an informed source," said today ex-premier Mohammed Mossadegh will have a public trial.

Mossadegh, an extremist nationalist who also was supported by the Communists, was ousted Aug. 19 by supporters of the Shah who installed Gen. Fazollah Zahedi in his place. The ex-Premier is charged with a series of misdeeds both while in office and since his overthrow.

Mossadegh is undergoing preliminary questioning at a Tehran prison. Military lawyers were reported drafting the formal charges he must face before a court martial. Iranian authorities said recently the ousted Premier also must face trial before both houses of Parliament.

McCarthy Still Hunting Reds In Employ Of Army

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), holding a "no whitewash" pledge from Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens, left today the administration today the next move in his search for Communist infiltration among the Army's civilian workers.

The Army has refused several times to give McCarthy's Senate investigations subcommittee the names of those who granted security clearances to three civilian workers the senator contends have ties to communism.

May Go To President
The refusals were based on an executive order from President Truman issued in 1948 forbidding government agencies to give out details on handling of security cases without White House permission. President Eisenhower has allowed the order to stand.

A day-long series of public and private hearings, meetings and news conferences by McCarthy's subcommittee Tuesday was marked by:

1. Stevens' public promise to decide with "no blackout, no whitewash" whether to comply with McCarthy's demand that he name the Army personnel who cleared the three workers for jobs.

2. McCarthy's declaration that he will appeal to Eisenhower if Stevens doesn't supply the names. McCarthy commented that "I can't conceive how a president elected on a cleanup program, who made promises from coast to coast to clean up crime and perversion, can refuse."

Pearson Denies Blackmail
3. A new policy statement by Stevens that it should be grounds for dismissal for any Army employee to refuse to tell whether he is a Communist.

4. A declaration by McCarthy that a "not overly bright" former employee of the Munitions Board had testified behind closed doors Tuesday that a reporter for columnist Drew Pearson subjected him to "blackmailing" tactics to get access to military secrets information. Pearson issued a statement denying that he or his staff engaged in blackmail to get news and said, "McCarthy's statements sound like his continued vendetta against me."

Baby Banged On Floor By Detroit Mother In Serious Condition
DETROIT (AP)—Young Gary Reynolds, banged on the floor by his mother, was in serious condition today.

The boy was badly injured Tuesday when his mother, Mrs. Frances Reynolds, 38, swung him by his heels hitting his head against a concrete floor.

Police held her for investigation of cruelty. She told them that she lost her temper, beat the boy with her shoe, then picked him up and bounced him off the floor—"I don't know how many times"—because he had licked the icing off some cinnamon rolls she was saving for guests.

President Has Only 3 Weeks To Select Vinson's Successor
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has only a little over three weeks to name a successor to the late Chief Justice Vinson if he wishes the appointee to be on the job at the time the Supreme Court opens its new term.

That time is noon on Monday, Oct. 5—the date fixed by law for term-opening formalities. Vinson was stricken with a fatal heart attack early Tuesday. He was 63.

Since Congress is in adjournment, Eisenhower is expected to fill the vacancy by recess appointment, subject to later confirmation by the Senate.

Black Senior Judge
If Eisenhower has not chosen a new chief justice by Oct. 5, Associate Justice Black will preside until Vinson's successor is named. Black takes on this task as senior judge in point of service.

Speculation over Eisenhower's choice centered on the name of Earl Warren, California's Republican governor. For some months, Warren has been reported headed for a Supreme Court seat when the Eisenhower administration had the duty of filling its first vacancy. Warren's term as governor, however, runs through next year; he would have to resign to accept an appointment to the high bench now.

Dewey Is Prospect
Other Republicans whose names figured in court speculation are Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Chief Justice Arthur V. Vanderbilt of the New Jersey Supreme Court and Judge John V. Parker of Charlotte, N.C., presiding judge of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court.

Vinson's former colleagues on the court will act as honorary pallbearers at his funeral tomorrow at Washington (Episcopal) Cathedral. Bishop Angus Dun will officiate.

While no definite travel plans were announced, there was no doubt that Eisenhower would come to Washington from his Denver vacation headquarters for the funeral. Former President Truman, who named Vinson chief justice in 1946, also planned to attend.

The Escanaba Board of Education is the principal legatee of the Norton estate for the purpose of establishing a scholarship fund in memory of Anna C. Norton, wife of the late publisher of the Press.

Mrs. Norton died in December, 1949 and Mr. Norton died in June, 1950.

Discuss Boiler Insurance
Other actions of the Board of Education at its meeting Tuesday night included the following:

Heard a suggestion from James Davidson, insurance agent, that the Board's policy on rotation of boiler insurance among various companies writing this type of insurance was not in the best interest of the school district. Davidson suggested that the school district would get better boiler inspections and improved service by maintaining the insurance with Travelers. He said that he would be willing to turn in his commission to the Insurance Agents Association to be pro-rated among all members of the association.

Authorized William Warmington, escrow agent of the Bonifas estate funds held in escrow, to close out the escrow account and turn over the school district's funds to the Board of Education. The school district has $65,000 held to escrow, plus $2,103.85 in accumulated interest.

Received the audit of the school district from Hilmer Johnson, CPA.

Contracts For Milk, Coal, Oil

Expansion Of Health Department To Include Dickinson And Iron Counties Discussed At Meeting

Preliminary plans for possible merging of Dickinson and Iron Counties with the Delta-Menominee Health Department were considered at a meeting of representatives of the four counties at a meeting in Powers-Spaulding High School Tuesday night.

On motion of Harold Gustafson, Ensign, chairman of the Delta County Board of Supervisors, the 20 persons attending unanimously agreed that the Delta-Menominee Health Board should present data on the proposed merger to the finance committees of the two counties, so that a definite agreement can be presented at the October meeting of the Delta County Board of Supervisors.

Dr. Albert E. Heustis, commissioner of the State Department of Health; Dr. Arthur C. Baker, chairman of the State Health Department's section for local health services; Russell Johnson, engineer for the department's Northern Peninsula office; Dr. William C. Harrison, director of the Delta-Menominee Health Department; Dr. S. K. Sweeney, assistant director of Pinecrest Sanatorium; members of the Delta-Menominee Health Board, and members of the Dickinson and Iron county health committees attended the meeting.

Counties Are Large
William Gray of Iron Mountain, chairman of the Dickinson-Iron Health committee outlined problems of the two counties since a 3-county unit in that area was dissolved, when Ontonagon County joined the Houghton-Keweenaw-Baraga unit.

"For two years it has been impossible to find a health director for the area, and the counties can not receive state and federal funds unless a director is obtained," Gray explained.

"We are hoping that we might share your health director with you," Gray explained to members of the Delta-Menominee Health Board.

Other four-county districts in the state are functioning successfully, as is a five-county unit, Dr. Baker, local services chairman for the Michigan Department of Health, stated. However, he said, the fact that the counties here are so large would call for additional administrative assistance, though not medical assistance.

Cost Is Big Item
Albert Kipfer of Menominee, chairman of the Delta-Menominee Board of Health, stated the board was "mainly interested in the finance of the thing," adding that health services are now "quite a load" for the two counties.

"If services are spread thinner and the same budget is maintained, there is no advantage in joining with the other two counties. But if we can give a larger budget and not sacrifice service, we would be inclined to look with favor on the proposed merger," Kipfer pointed out.

Gustafson, chairman of the Delta Board of Supervisors, noted that the health board has learned it is difficult to keep a health director, and that "the big item is cost, without sacrifice of service. We have lots of miles and if we spread out, the cost could become prohibitive," he noted. The Delta supervisor added that he was in favor of consolidation to give service to more people, saying he recognized "we shouldn't be selfish."

Problems In Combination
Dr. Heustis, who prefaced his remarks with the statement that he "was not here to tell anyone what to do," said the proposed merger was feasible and that it had been done elsewhere. But some places have failed miserably because distances were great and persons on the periphery were dissatisfied, and others failed because boards "tried to put something over to save money," he explained.

The state health commissioner said the Department of Health will "help work things out" after the counties have reached a basic agreement. He emphasized that "no consolidation has resulted so far in savings" and that usually there is a slight increase in cost.

"A combination is not without problems and you won't get the same service from one man. You need to make provisions to help the health director or services will decrease," Dr. Heustis stated. But the largest of conditions for success of a combination is the earnest desire and sincere conviction of the members involved, he declared.

Immunization Important

The health commissioner pointed out that almost every county in Michigan is spending more money for tuberculosis and hospitalization than for preventive health, and "to some extent, that applies in this area." Larger amounts are being spent each year to hospitalize TB patients and not much is being done to decrease these costs, he said.

"On straight dollars and cents, we can do it," the health commissioner declared. By making additional efforts to find cases earlier, we can cut costs of hospitalization later on, he explained. "That type of thinking and planning is in the range of sound government economy," he added.

Chairman Kipfer, pointing out that immunization has been an important, "tangible factor" in proving the worth of the health department, questioned whether a merger would lessen the immunization benefits to Delta and Menominee counties, but was assured by Dr. Harrison, health director for the two counties, that a "backlog no longer exists" and that the director still would be able to continue "maintenance service" as well as immunize the 1500 new children born each year. "Forty to 50 immunizations per hour can be administered 'if they come fast enough,'" Dr. Harrison said.

58,000 People
More community organization might bring help from others in doing the health work, Dr. Heustis pointed out, in discussing the differential in demand for immunization services in counties where a full-time director has not been available. He also stressed that the treatment of disease is "best carried out by local physicians" and that "what the health department does is for the community." "The state pays to protect the public, not the individual," he explained, "and where health protection is concerned the rich man is the same as the poor man." Dr. Arthur Baker presented a proposed four-county budget last night, and members discussed, but reached no agreement, on whether the costs should be shared on the basis of population served, county valuation, or both.

If the counties merge, a population of 98,000 would be served by the new unit, and the area would be 4,000 square miles, Dr. Harrison said. He stressed that if the counties merge, the entire staff of the existing Delta-Menominee unit would be needed, not just the health director, as representatives from Dickinson county suggested.

Plan Joint Meeting
Iron and Dickinson county representatives last night also consulted with Dr. Heustis on the possibility of obtaining a health director for the two counties, and were assured that the state department would assist in recruiting one, if that was desired.

Kipfer, at the close of the meeting, stressed that any merger would have to be on a "share and share alike" basis and that supervisory services of a nurse and sanitary engineer as well as the health director must be part of the agreement.

Plans were made last night for another joint meeting, following meetings of the Delta-Menominee Health Board with finance committees. The Delta-Menominee unit presently is financed on a 55-45 basis by Delta and Menominee counties. The local budget last year was $28,000, Dr. Harrison said.

Those Attending
A regular meeting of the Delta-Menominee Health Board scheduled to follow the joint meeting last night, was postponed until Thursday night. It will be held in Menominee.

Those attending the meeting in addition to health officials previously mentioned, were as follows:

Iron County — William Johns, Leo Mitchell, Carl Lindquist and Walter Scott. Dickinson County — Jacob Bortoli, Clarence A. Erickson, John B. Spera, William Gray, E. C. Graef, chairman of the Iron-Dickinson health committee, and Mrs. Eula Keenan, secretary of the committee. Menominee County — Arvid E. Revall and Albert Kipfer. Delta County — Walter Mannie, Rock; M. G. LaPine, Gladstone; Harold Gustafson, Ensign.

Level Of Lake Continues High

The U. S. Lakes Survey reports that water level of Lake Michigan for the month of August was six and three-quarter inches below the level of August, 1952, yet only 1 foot seven inches below the August average.

The slow decline in Great Lakes levels this year is indicated on all of the five lakes, which continue high to the benefit of shipping and the annoyance of some shore property owners.

Record high for Lake Michigan was 583.54 feet elevation in 1876, which is 1 foot five inches above the present elevation.

The record low for Lake Michigan was in 1934 with an elevation of 577.91 feet, which was 4 feet 1 inch below the level of August this year.

Great Lakes levels have seasonal variations. Late winter is usually the lowest elevation, followed by a springtime rise and a seasonal high occurring in late summer and early fall.

Tourist Specialist Coming Sept. 15

C. A. Gunn, extension specialist in tourist and resort work, will be in Delta County Sept. 15 to visit people with problems in this field. Joseph L. Heirman, county agricultural agent, has announced.

Persons already in the tourist or resort business, or planning to enter it, who have questions about any aspect of the field, are asked to telephone Heirman's office, telephone 90, to be included on Gunn's itinerary that day.

Heirman said Gunn's specialty is building and construction work on cabins, cottages and motels. He can help on problems concerning sites, construction work, sewage disposal, remodeling, and other matters. He has examined tourist and resort facilities throughout the state and so has a wealth of experience to aid him in giving advice, Heirman said.

The county agent also noted that such things as floor plans, plans for parking areas, etc., are available free of charge from the extension service.

There is no charge for Gunn's visit, the county agent said.

Extension work is sponsored jointly by Michigan State College and the United States Department of Agriculture.

A large number of topics will be covered. There will be a demonstration on herd classifications, and a film on "Bulk Handling." Some of the scheduled talks are "Producing Quality Milk," "Enforcing Milk Laws," "Painless Reproduction," "Dollars and Sense in Roughage Feeding," and "Institutional Herd Management."

Experts from the Chatham experiment station and from Michigan State College at East Lansing, and from other places, will participate in the program.

Wells Denies Schools For Religious Use

Holding to the principle of separation of church and state, the Wells Township School Board in regular meeting last night adopted a motion which will end the use by religious groups of public school buildings in the township.

The Board acted upon a request by Father Stenberg of St. Anthony's Parish to use four rooms of the Wells school for the teaching of catechism on Friday afternoons by re-examining the existing policy.

Requested material received from an executive secretary of the State Department of Public Instruction outlined the following:

"The status of religious instruction in the public schools of Michigan has not been expressly defined by Michigan statutes nor by the Supreme Court of the State."

Cite Court Ruling
The Board felt that the principle of law established by a ruling of the U. S. Supreme Court contained the basic principle governing this case. The ruling reads as follows:

"State statutes or decisions of state courts which permit the utilization of a tax established and tax supported public school system by the use of either personnel or property to aid any religious group or groups to spread their faiths, even though the opportunity is afforded impartially, are in violation of the fundamental principle of separation of church and state set forth in the first amendment of the Constitution and made applicable to the states by the 14th amendment of that Constitution."

In the light of that decision, the Board established Board policy in the use of public school property in the following motion:

"All public school property and personnel are to be used only for public school activity or for other activity specifically provided for by the Michigan School Code of 1952."

This policy will deny the use of public school property also to three other demonstrations which have been using buildings for religious instruction for the last several years.

View School Plans

The Board voted unanimously for a trial period of one month to run a special late bus from the Escanaba High School to allow Wells High School students to participate in extra-curricular activities, such as football, basketball, etc.

Escanaba Public School authorities have encouraged the more complete use of their school extra-curricular activities by rural students.

A delegation from Soo Hill was present to examine a new preliminary sketch by Architect Walter Arntzen of the proposed additional school building at Soo Hill. The Board acted to enter negotiations with Joseph Allard of Soo Hill for the purchase of additional land to complement the present school property. This will permit a more advantageous building site for the new school plant. Frank Bender Jr., secretary and Earl Iverson, president will negotiate with Allard.

The Board authorized the attendance of Superintendent Klug at a conference of superintendents to be held at St. Ignace on Sept. 20, 21, and 22.

A special meeting will be called at a later date by Earl Iverson, Board president, to consummate the purchase of land for the Soo Hill school property, and purchase of an additional fuel oil tank for the Pine Ridge school and the preliminary consideration of insurance for school property.

AN OLDTIMER—Ben Carnes of Battle Creek, stopped at Escanaba yesterday to refuel this old Ryan B-1, one of about five airplanes left in the country that were fashioned, in 1928, after Lindbergh's famous "Spirit of St. Louis." Ben says his B-1, which cruises for six hours at about 100 m.p.h., differs from newer planes mainly in that it is less balanced in flight; you can't fly it "hands-off." The plane is half as old as aviation itself.

County Assessor System Advocated For Michigan

The advantages of a county assessor system compared to the present system of an assessor for each city and township in the county was described to the Escanaba Rotary Club Tuesday noon by Charles Schmidt, assessor for the city of Escanaba.

Schmidt's comparisons between the present system of many assessors and the proposed system in which one qualified assessor would serve the entire county had previously been presented in a talk to the Michigan Municipal League.

His talk to the Escanaba Rotary Club followed a speech last week by Charles Folio of Escanaba on the necessity for an amendment to the state constitution to permit county home rule. Schmidt was introduced by John A. Lemmer, Rotary Club program chairman.

Fewer And Better

There are now about 1,800 assessment districts in Michigan, with each township and each city forming a separate assessment district, Schmidt said. In some fourth-class cities each ward is a separate assessment district.

Each of these districts, which vary greatly in population, land area, and taxable wealth; and each district has an assessor with varying assessment viewpoints.

"Good assessment procedure requires well trained, qualified personnel to do a continuous full-time job," Schmidt said. "The rule of thumb has no place in this modern age. The variations that arise when untrained personnel are in command are legion."

A number of states have adopted legislation abolishing the hundreds of untrained city, ward, and township assessors and have established a full-time county assessor, Schmidt reported.

Aid County Government
Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota and Nebraska have established county assessor systems in recent years; but in South Dakota and Pennsylvania the effort toward modernizing the property assessment system has so far failed in their legislatures.

"The problem of equalization between the cities and townships of each county, so that each pays a fair share of the county and school district government has long been a vexing problem in Michigan," Schmidt noted.

"To eliminate the friction between city and township governments there has been advanced the idea of the creation of a county-wide assessment system."

In principle the plan has been advocated by the National Association of Assessing Officers, Schmidt reported.

More Effective, Fair

"In Michigan, in effect, the plan would reduce the number of assessors from 1,800 to possibly less than 200. Instead of 1,800 local Boards of Review which function haphazardly and ineffectively, there would be need for only one in each large city, probably one in most counties," Schmidt said.

Local government needs property taxes if it is to be strong and active.

"I believe the property tax will produce more revenue less painfully under more favorable conditions," Schmidt said in connection with the proposal for a county-wide assessing system.

Streamlining Michigan's tax administration would end the present handicap of decentralization, untrained personnel and awkward and expensive procedure, the speaker said.

Gamma Globulin Cuts Paralysis, Dr. Heustis Says

The proportion of cases paralyzed from poliomyelitis is lower than before use of gamma globulin was begun, Dr. Albert E. Heustis, commissioner of the Michigan Department of Health, said Tuesday.

"Though it is by far too early to make lasting statements, there is a very definite impression that the number of paralyzed cases has decreased," the health commissioner pointed out.

Dr. Heustis was here Tuesday for a meeting at Spalding with health committees from Iron and Dickinson counties and the Delta-Menominee Health Board, to consider possible merging of the four counties into one health unit.

A program to evaluate use of the blood derivative in providing passive immunity for persons exposed to polio is being conducted by the state department of health, he said, and all facts and data are expected to be ready next January or February.

Since last Thursday, the trend of poliomyelitis in Michigan has been downward, Dr. Heustis noted, and the caseload this year is lower than last year.

"The department has an adequate supply of gamma globulin for foreseeable needs," Dr. Heustis stated. The immune serum, given to contacts of polio patients is specially tested to ascertain whether it contains the polio antibodies. The serum lacking it is used by the department for measles, he explained.

A three-point program for use of gamma globulin is underway in the state department of health, he added. It consists of administration of gamma globulin to family contacts under 30 and pregnant women, to provide immunity, double doses or some from an added 100,000 cc allocation to the department, and mass immunization at Marquette, when the number of polio cases there increased this year.

A physical therapist at Marquette is studying polio cases in youngsters who received gamma globulin and comparing results with cases which did not receive the injection, and Dr. Thomas Francis, head of the virus disease section at the University of Michigan is making special studies of persons who received the double dose, Dr. Heustis explained.

We're trying to get all the data we can from Marquette to learn more of the effects of gamma globulin," he pointed out. He said there was "considerable evi-

Red Owl Company Officials Visit Escanaba Store

"Grocery merchandising methods have made such tremendous changes in the past few years that often it simply scares us," Ford Bell, Minneapolis, president of Red Owl stores stated while on a visit here this morning.

One of the most noticeable trends, he pointed out was the way super market stores are moving from the beaten paths to locations where parking space is available.

"But this is only one of the many details that keep the market managers on the jump. We cannot afford to overlook any item that tends to better the service," he added.

Bell, along with executives of various departments are on a good will trip, meeting the store personnel and looking over their property. In his party were Glen Grife, executive vice president; Erling Rice, vice president of retail operations; J. Y. Dear, vice president of warehouse and transportation operations of the eastern division and Carl Vandree, head of the eastern division.

The company now operates 147 stores, most of which are in the mid-west areas, he stated.

For the past several years, said

Institute for John St. Jacques; Mt. Holyoke College for Kathryn Welch; Rehabilitation Hospital (Grand Rapids) for Mary Lee Woodard.

Bell, the company has bought up well established lines of grocery stores and have standardized them to a degree that assures the buying public the same type and quality of merchandise wherever they are located. This he said has been a big factor in the company's rapid growth.

Their present itinerary includes stores in northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

St. Thomas School Begins First Year; 82 Enrolled

St. Thomas the Apostle School Tuesday began its first school year and 82 children were enrolled.

Only the first and second grades are being offered this year, but a grade will be added each year. Father Arnold Thompson, pastor, reports.

The parochial school is located in the former St. Thomas hall, which this summer was remodeled. The interior is of wood paneling. A playground also has been equipped for the children.

Two sisters of the Order of St. Dominic, Sr. Marie William and Sr. Joan Therese, are the instructors. The first grade, taught by Sr. Marie William, has 47 students and the second grade has 35.

St. Thomas the Apostle parish was formed here five years ago.

Adenauer Election Is Victory For U.S. Policy In Germany

THE victory of Chancellor Adenauer in Sunday's German elections constitutes a victory of vital importance to the western powers and particularly to the United States.

Chancellor Adenauer has worked in close alliance with the United States and in a vigorous foe of Communism. He was a target of the Communists in the recent elections but when the votes were counted, Adenauer had won a sweeping election. The Communists failed to win a single seat. So did the opposite end of the political spectrum, the neo-Nazi German Reich party.

America's 'Unconscious Heros'

SOMEONE said once that our kind of industrial civilization is carried along by thousands upon thousands of "unconscious heroes."

He meant that in many walks of life men today perform tough, often drab tasks with efficiency and spirit, day in and day out. The sum of their efforts is a remarkable level of national attainment.

One of those "unconscious heroes" rode the cab of a freight locomotive near Mattoon, Ill., the other day. While at the throttle, he suffered a stroke that paralyzed his whole body except his left arm. Yet with that arm he worked the throttle and brought the train safely into the Mattoon yards 10 miles away.

Fortunately for America, it has many men like Engineer G. S. McNeil.

The Doctor Says . . . Bed-Wetting Habit Can Be Eliminated With Proper Care

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D. — Written for NEA Service

Inability to hold the urine at night, commonly called bed-wetting and medically called enuresis, is normal during the first year or two of life.

However, when control of the urine during sleep is not mastered by the time a child is about a year and a half old, or if bed-wetting develops later on in life after being absent for several years, it causes a great deal of emotional distress as well as physical discomfort.

There are some definite nerve conditions and a few diseases of the urinary tract itself occasionally responsible, but the vast majority of older youngsters who suffer from bed-wetting seem to be in perfect physical health.

If no physical cause is found, enuresis becomes largely a psychological problem. In some cases continued bed-wetting appears to be the result of a sort of resentment usually directed towards the parents. Physical punishment is certainly not the answer to the problem. The fact that enuresis almost invariably occurs during sleep indicates that it is not done purposely and therefore punishment would not be of the slightest benefit.

From the practical standpoint, what can be done for bed-wetting? In some cases the aid of a psychiatrist should be obtained with the aim of getting at the basic mental cause. In some cases, however, more simple methods may suffice to help a youngster to get over this unfortunate habit. It is usually advisable to cut out fluids of all kinds as much as possible after 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon. If the time of enuresis is about the same night after night, it is possible to wake the youngster up or set an alarm clock an hour or so beforehand.

Recently, a group of 42 victims of chronic enuresis at night, in whom any physical cause had been eliminated, were treated by being awakened immediately after the beginning of urination by automatic electric alarm. The purpose of this was to try to train them to wake up instead of to urinate whenever the pressure on the bladder increased.

LEARNED TO SLEEP

The difficulty was stopped in 38 of the 42 and most of them learned to sleep through the entire night. This, then, is another method which may be helpful in conquering this disturbing condition.

It has been claimed that three psychological reasons are most important: The first is that the youngster has not yet grown up with reference to water control, the second is that subconsciously the youngster wishes to return to or remain in the rather protected and irresponsible state of infancy difficulties of his or her age.

Finally, there is the point which has been previously mentioned, namely that there is subconscious resentment against the parents because they have been too critical or have otherwise frustrated the youngster.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—When Bob Anderson of Vernon, Tex., was appointed secretary of the Navy by President Eisenhower, most of the top brass in the Navy Department figured he would be a pushover.

In the first place, the admirals are pretty good at soft-soaping, sometimes even pushing around their civilian bosses. They have been doing this almost ever since the days of Josephus Daniels, who bucked the admirals on almost everything—from liquor aboard battleships to proposing more opportunity for advancement from the ranks.

In the second place, Anderson is a farmer. True, he is a big-scale farmer, having been manager of the Waggoner 500,000-acre ranch in Texas, where he actually uses helicopters to herd mavericks out of scrub oak. Even so, the admirals knew the new Navy secretary's nearest approach to battleships was nothing much more than a mud scow on the Brazos River. So they prepared to sit back and run the Navy pretty much as they pleased.

They have experienced, however, a considerable surprise. For the new secretary has started to rein them in with firmness of a broncho-busting cowboy on his ranch.

When he heard that Capt. George Hyman Rickover, expert on the atomic submarine, had been passed over by the Navy selection board for his promotion to admiral because of his religion, Secretary Anderson acted fast. Since he has the power to reject selection board recommendations, he quietly let word drop that Capt. Rickover's name would have to be among those recommended on the next go-around or else other admirals might not get promoted. The admirals took the hint and Rickover now wears the two stars of a rear admiral.

KEY WEST STRIP TEASE

Again when this column exposed the manner in which certain brass hats planned to railroad their junior officer, Lieut. Comdr. Jerry McDaniel, at Key West, Fla., Anderson also stepped in. McDaniel was jailed for 42 days for staging a strip tease charity benefit at Key West, though some of his superior officers appeared to be quite cognizant of what he was doing.

Anderson has now issued notice of reprimand to Admiral Irving Duke for trying to make McDaniel the scapegoat, and has taken action against other superior officers named in this column.

On another occasion, Anderson called in his bureau chiefs, told them certain budget cuts were necessary and asked them to submit figures to achieve these cuts. One bureau chief, Admiral Homer N. Wallin of the Bureau of Ships, did not take this seriously. Result: Admiral Wallin was transferred to Seattle.

Secretary Anderson never lost his temper, had no unpleasantness with Admiral Wallin. But he made his point so clear that Admiral Wallin himself requested the transfer.

Note 1—Cong. Charles Bennett of Florida had a friendly talk with the secretary of the Navy regarding the Key West strip tease act, urged a higher standard of morality in the Navy. Anderson vigorously concurred.

Note 2—Another recent civilian executive who was not afraid to buck top Navy brass was undersecretary of the Navy Francis Whitehair.

STASSEN'S PHONY TEST

Harold Stassen's big hullabaloo about an aptitude test to pick the best men to stay in government turned out to be a wonderful publicity gag, but otherwise the biggest hoax Washington has seen in a long time.

Inside fact is that Stassen's aides were drawing up the list of employees they wanted to fire at exactly the same time the so-called scientific test was being given. And after the tests were taken, Stassen, believe it or not, fired the men who scored the highest marks.

These included top officials. With one or two exceptions, the men with the lower marks were kept.

In the near eastern division of the technical cooperative assistance program, for instance, Stassen fired 17 out of the 20 top officials who got the highest marks. He fired the administrator for the Near East, Reseman Fryer, the assistant administrator for the Near East, and the chiefs of every country except Israel and Iran.

With Eisenhower worrying over what's happening in Morocco, Tunisia, and Africa generally, where vitally important U. S. air bases are in jeopardy, this could be highly dangerous firing. These areas have come to look upon the technical assistance program as one of their biggest aids, and it has won many friends for the U. S. A.—in an area where friends have been scarce.

In the Asia division of TCA, Stassen also fired the five men who scored the highest.

This again is an area about which the administration has been worried. The worry was expressed no later than last week in a speech before the American Legion by John Foster Dulles.

Soldier Marriages Cement U.S. Truce Relationship With Korea

By FRED SPARKS

NEA Staff Correspondent

SEOUL, Korea (NEA)—We are cementing our South Korean relations with a non-political pact: Marriage.

During these idle hours of truce our GIs, being human, so far from home and so lonesome, are forming friendships that will end at the altar. Each week the number of applicants multiplies.

(Old Soldier says: "When an army is on the move infantrymen collect chickens; when garrisoned they collect wives.")

A good example is Sgt. Richard Marquis, 22. As a combat engineer during his first months in Korea he built roads and bridges under the fire of Chinese snipers. When the fighting sputtered down during truce talks he was shifted to floor walking in the Seoul PX.

It took him exactly two days to pay attention to Miss Kyung Sook, a salesgirl with a slight acquaintance of English. She has a doll's figure. Long thick lashes around her almond eyes meet like a venetian blind, and the sergeant wondered what, if anything, she could see.

She saw him, all right. Faster than you can spell Syngman Rhee they were strolling evenings through Duk Soo Palace as moonlight shimmered on the lotus pond—or jitterbugging in the EM Club of the 55th M. P. Battalion.

This was no sailor-in-a-port affair. Marriage seemed inevitable despite East and West. Kyung sitting on the floor and Richard in a chair, Kyung's rice and Richard's potatoes, Christianity and Buddhism.

The army didn't quite see it that way. Taking our young men to far off places has made it worry about spring and romance as well as Communists and firepower. The army denies not trooper the right to wed, but reserves the right to warn.

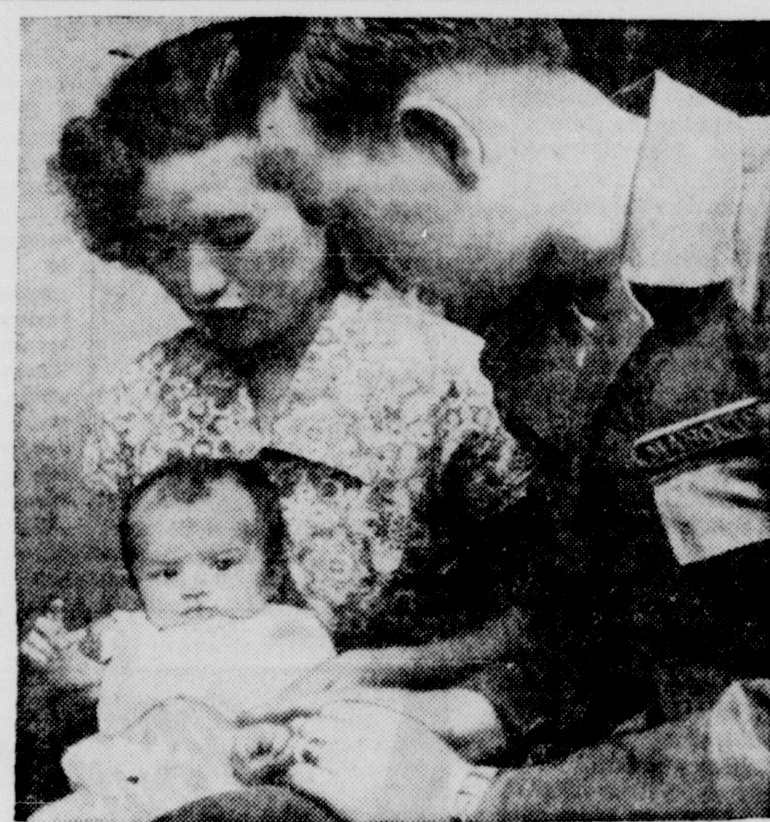

A chaplain frankly explained the problems of inter-racial marriages: how Kyung would have trouble adjusting herself in his native Parkersburg, W. Va.; how their children would be marked "different" and suffer the awful persecution of young schoolmates.

Richard also noted that Kyung's family and friends were bitter that she dated a GI, questioning the intentions of all soldiers. Furthermore, in this land ancient custom forbids a single girl to have boy friends and parties; marriage today Marquis is one of few GIs here living a family life.

With their seven-month-old baby, Ada Leona, they live in a neat house with sliding papered walls.

EAST-WEST MERGER: Sgt. Richard Marquis, of Parkersburg, W. Va., lives in Seoul with Korean wife and daughter.

is a matter arranged by the elders.

Sgt. Marquis retreated (as so many do) before the two-sided pressure. In a sorry scene, in the mid-day shadow of a Seoul pagoda, he said goodbye to Kyung Sook.

As his army career was closing he went to Inchon Harbor to catch a ship home. While waiting his mind was tortured: "What right have others to interfere with our happiness? Shall we bow before common prejudices?"

The next morning, startling the embarkation officer, he re-enlisted and volunteered to remain in Korea another year. He pleaded with Kyung to forgive him. She interpreted his appeal to her father, who consented.

They were married in a simple ceremony, he attended by GIs in combat boots, she by slipped brown girls in white robes. Korean wine and U. S. rations mixed equally after the rites.

Today Marquis is one of few GIs here living a family life. With their seven-month-old baby, Ada Leona, they live in a neat house with sliding papered walls.

WAITING: Soon Soong of Seoul is waiting to join her U. S. husband, Capt. Zigmund Zabuski of Springfield, Ill., now stationed at Camp Atterbury, Ind.

Enroute to his home through the narrow busy alleys of Seoul, his jeep scrapes past ox carts, past the shattered skeletons of half this destroyed capital, vendors selling second hand army clothes, and GIs with rifles strapped to their backs, walking hand in hand with girl friends.

Dick still takes his meals in the army mess hall; Mrs. Marquis can't handle his cooking tastes, although she carefully studies an imported recipe book. She herself still prefers the violently garlicked native dishes and the inevitable rice.

Her clothes come from the "Wishing Book," local slang for U. S. mail order catalogues which the girls thumb through, pointing and saying: "I wish I had that . . . wish I had this . . ."

Soon they will sail together for the U. S. for what they know will be a trying adventure to find happiness and security.

Kyung's friends who also married our soldiers and went before them to the States have written mixed reports. Others have returned, admitting failure. And back here an ex-wife, a divorced woman, is so much tragic baggage on the streets, scorned by all.

But the Marquis are determined, somehow, to prove that Kipling was wrong about "East is East and West is West."

Good Evening . . .

By CLINT DUNATHAN

HIGH IN THE SKY—The hour was 2:15 p. m. Saturday, Sept. 5, and the blue sky shone through a patchwork of fleecy white clouds.

William Pintal of Pine Ridge, a few miles west of Escanaba, looked up and then stared hard—for shining against the blue was an elongated silvery balloon, trailing a smaller balloon or a parachute below it.

The balloon was drifting rapidly from the west to the east and it was so high that clouds passed beneath it, temporarily obscuring it from Pintal's view.

Seeking to find out more about the balloon and believing his discovery to be of more than ordinary importance, Pintal telephoned S. E. Decker, U. S. Weather Bureau meteorologist at Escanaba.

PERHAPS RADIOSONDE—Decker was interested and made his own observations from atop the post office building, which houses U. S. Weather Bureau and other offices.

After reporting to Decker, Pintal watched the balloon a while longer, and later said he saw an airplane circle the balloon and fly off into the northwest.

"It might be a radiosonde balloon," Decker said. "If it is it probably drifted over Escanaba from St. Cloud, Minn., which is the nearest place to us where they are sent up."

Such balloons are used in weather observations. He estimated the one drifting over Escanaba to be up three to four miles.

It did not appear to be one of the larger Army or Navy "sky hook" balloons sent up from the West Coast, he added. Such balloons rise much higher than the radiosonde (radio-sound) type.

MANY OBSERVATIONS—Use of balloons in gathering weather data is not new with the U. S. Weather Bureau, but it is coming into increasing importance as advances are made in transmitting data from the balloon to the station.

Four pilot balloon soundings are made daily at 175 points. At 60 places radiosonde or rawinsonde, balloons equipped with radar) observations are made twice daily.

In addition to the observations made by balloon, which are a relatively recent development, there are observations taken every hour at 400 stations on the airways, and at three-hour to six-hour intervals at other stations.

The weather forecasting and recording task is enormously important to people everywhere. To this end the Weather Bureau has 450 stations in the U. S. and its possessions which localize the work of observing the weather and giving out forecasts.

MORE THAN PROVERBS—Veteran mariners and others whose occupations have made them aware of weather vagaries and changes often can forecast the weather fairly accurately for several hours in advance.

Seldom, however, do they rely upon the old weather proverbs, although some of the proverbs have good scientific basis. Most are the outgrowth of superstition and ignorance.

The groundhog legend has been proved false, but an old Indian belief that a halo around the sun meant coming storm is supported by science.

"Evening red and morning gray speeds the traveler on his way; evening gray and morning red brings the rain down on his head," is more poetry than fact.

The only sensible way to forecast the weather is by the use of weather maps based upon the correlated observations of many weather stations. This task is the responsibility of the U. S. Weather Bureau.

OF PUBLIC SERVICE—There are few people in the U. S. who do not avail themselves of weather forecasts, whether they are planning a family picnic or the launching of a new ship.

There are reports and forecasts for the safety of air travel, weather advices for farmers, special forecasts when forest fires threaten.

Measurements of rainfall and river stages bring warnings of floods, Great Lakes and ocean shippers are advised in advance of dangerous storms. Except for the Postal Service, the Weather Bureau each day reaches more persons in the United States than any other government agency. And its staff numbers only slightly over 3,000 civil service employees.

New 68-Page Book Answers Questions About Government

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—Every member of congress receives questions about the government from the people back home. Out of this quizzing has grown a 68-page booklet, just published by the government, answering 291 questions.

The booklet had its origin many years ago when a Texas Democrat, Rep. Wright Patman, began writing a weekly newsletter to the newspapers in his district and each week included the answers to three questions.

After Patman had collected a pile of such questions, and had provided answers, he began to get requests for them in batches, particularly from schoolteachers.

In the early 1940's Patman's fellow congressmen in the House, who had been receiving the same kind of queries, voted to have a government booklet printed, wrapping up a bunch of questions and answers, for sale and distribution to the public. From time to time the booklet was reprinted and enlarged. This year another edition was authorized and it has just come off the press.

Its name is, "Our American Government: What Is It? How Does It Function?"

About 500,000 copies were turned out for senators and members of the House. If you want one free you can write to your senator or representative. Or, you can buy one for 20 cents from the superintendent of documents, United States Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

This booklet has in one handy package answers which a schoolchild or his parents or a group might not be able to find at home or in a local library, even after hours of searching.

For example, there is the question about the difference between a "bill" and an "act." A bill is the technical name for a measure introduced in either house until it has been passed by that house. Then it is known as an act.

In popular usage, however, the term "act" is used to refer to a measure which has been finally passed by both houses and becomes law, whether by approval of the president or otherwise.

Polio Immunity Extract Tested

ROME (AP)—Two Indiana researchers reported today that white mice injected with a mild extract related to penicillin show signs of immunity to polio.

The report was presented by H. M. Powell and C. G. Culbertson of the Lilly research laboratories in Indianapolis, Ind., at the sixth International Congress of Microbiology. It was labeled as in the "early experimental" stage.

They achieved the results with a substance filtered from cultures of penicillium mold. Penicillium is in the same family as the wonder drug penicillin but it is not the same mold.

Drs. Powell and Culbertson found the filtrate, which they called "M5-8450," while testing new fungus filtrates from the penicillium mold. They discovered it had a strong action against two

Dr. Powell said it is too early to tell exactly what will come of experiments with "M5-8450" or whether it ever can be applied to human beings.

When The Quints Were Babies: 2

They Fast Grew Into
Winsome Personalities

The Dionne quintuplets, like babies everywhere, grew up fast from helpless infants to winsome personalities, and soon their pictures became as familiar (and as adorable) through newspapers and magazines as the snapshot of sister in father's wallet. Here they are in closeups taken during their first year—just about the time some teeth were due. At top, left to right: Marie, Cecile and Annette. Below: Yvonne (left) and Emilie.

Now that you have the key, can you tell which is which in the photo at right as they cuddle in the arms of Fred S. Ferguson, president of NEA Service?

Ferguson was a familiar figure at the Dafee Hospital in those early years. He arranged with the guardians and later the Ontario government for all still pictures made of the quintuplets during their first five years. These pictures were made by photographer Fred Davis of Toronto.

Widely distributed by NEA Service, the photographs became the foundation on which the Province of Ontario built up a million-dollar estate for the five famous daughters through advertising, endorsements and a motion picture, "The Country Doctor," in which the quintuplets appeared in a few scenes with Jean Hersholt.

For Best Trout Luck Pick The Same Spot

GRAYLING (AP)—Now that the trout season is nearly over, look back on all the places you fished and pick out the one you liked the best.

Got it? Now, here's a suggestion—resolve to fish that stretch all next season and see how much better you do. You'll learn to know the stretch like the back of your hand, and therefore, you'll catch more fish per hour.

I tried that this summer, and it worked for me. A friendly native of the wild country around here turned over to me his "private," little-featured stretch of a stream that will remain unnamed.

Take The Bumps

To get into the stretch you drive a while on an ordinary sand trail. Then at an almost invisible turn-off you head your car down the overgrown right-of-way of a long dead logging railroad. The ties are still in place, mounded into round bumps. Your car, creeping along at five miles an hour, scrapes the brush and juggles like it had the palsy.

A half mile of that, and you come to some trees growing smack in the middle of the right-of-way. So you leave the car, get into your waders, fishing jacket, creel and all the rest of it and start walking, still on the right-of-way.

You walk another half mile. A covey of grouse explodes at your feet. A deer starts up from his afternoon siesta and crashes away.

Reaching the stream, you find the ruins of a timber bridge which carried the tracks across. It has long since fallen in, but the pilings are still there. Just below the bridge is a deep, dark pool.

Worth A Try

This is the first of many pools and riffles for half a mile both upstream and down on the stretch. I fished them all hard this summer and got so I was taking home all the "eatin' size" brook trout the hungry gang at the cottage could eat and a few real rod benders.

I probably fished for trout 30 or 40 times this summer, and always at my private stretch. I got to know every nook and cranny of the stretch, what the fish would be taking and where they would be at any given time. I caught far more trout than I ever had before in years of hopping from place to place.

It's worth a try next year for anyone who is dissatisfied with the results of his trout fishing.

The only thing is—find your own stretch and stay the heck out of mine.

WHEN ARTHRITIS STRUCK I COULDN'T EVEN DO MY HOUSEWORK

MRS. MINA ALLEN, 27 CONGRESS STREET, A LIFELONG RESIDENT OF BATTLE CREEK, SUFFERED SUCH SEVERE PAIN FROM ARTHRITIS SHE THOUGHT HER HIP WAS OUT OF JOINT. O-JIB-WA BITTERS BROUGHT HER COMPLETE RELIEF. READ HER STORY BELOW.

"Arthritis struck me almost overnight. It settled in my back and hips, and put me right down."

I couldn't get out of bed and had to have my cousin come in to do my housework. The pain was so severe that it felt like my hip was out of joint. I tried so many things just trying to get some relief that I can't begin to remember them all, and aspirin was the only thing I found that helped me, and that only eased the pain temporarily. Then, I saw O-JIB-WA BITTERS advertised in my newspaper, and decided to try that too. I was quite surprised from the results I received from the first bottle. It stopped most of my pain, and I could sleep well again for the first time in ages. Now, I have completed my second bottle and want to say that my pains are completely gone. I do all my own housework and even my washing and often do others when they need assistance. You will be interested in knowing that my husband is taking your medicine also, and although he still has trouble getting around the house, he says he sure wouldn't be without it as before he started taking O-Jib-Wa he was right down in bed and couldn't even turn over. He has improved so greatly all ready that he can at least get around the house, and can drive the car again. We are so happy with O-JIB-WA BITTERS that we would be glad to tell other people about it. O-JIB-WA BITTERS not only relieved our arthritis, but built up our vitality and made us feel so much better in every way."

Gov. Williams Says State May Get Out Of Red This Year

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Williams said there is a "bare outside" possibility the state will be in the black financially at the end of the current fiscal year, wiping out a potential general fund deficit of $90,000,000 in one year.

At the start of the past fiscal year beginning July 1, 1952, the general fund had accumulated a deficit of $65,300,000. Without new revenues, financial officers saw it reaching $90,000,000 by the end of that fiscal year.

State Controller Robert F. Steadman reported that nearly complete accounting of the year's fiscal operations showed the deficit was down to $32,300,000 on June 30, 1953, the end of the fiscal year. Steadman said that if business conditions permit the sales tax to maintain its present pace and the Legislature's new business receipts tax meets expectations, the deficit may be down to $10,000,000 or less by June 30, 1954.

Robber Russell On Top FBI List

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lloyd Reed Russell, 32-year-old midwestern robber, has been added to the FBI's list of ten most-wanted fugitives.

Russell, who has figured in a number of daring prison escapes, is the last man remaining at large from a group of seven convicts who burned their way out of the Marquette branch of Michigan State Prison last May 22.

Russell at the time was serving a long sentence for the shooting of a Michigan state police detective after making a previous escape from a prison farm at London, Ohio.

In the Michigan break, he and six other inmates were working on a repair job inside a cell block when they obtained an acetylene torch, armed themselves with pipes, wrenches and homemade knives and overpowered two guards.

They used the torch to cut their way through the cell block bars and fled into a nearby woods. Within a month, all except Russell were recaptured.

Cotton Crop Surplus Foreseen This Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department has forecast this year's cotton crop at 15,159,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight.

This figure is 554,000 bales more than last month's estimate of 14,605,000 bales.

Officials have said that a crop of 12 million bales or more would create a surplus supply requiring Secretary Benson to invoke rigid production and marketing controls on the 1954 crop. Benson has until Oct. 15 to make a decision.

The indicated crop compares with 15,136,000 bales produced last year and 12,215,000 for the 10-year (1942-51) average.

Homes of the Famous-8

1731 STRATFORD HALL, VIRGINIA.

AP Newsfeatures

This spectacular house, overlooking the Potomac, was purchased, in 1932, by the Robert E. Lee Memorial Foundation and, with its grounds, is not only a memorial to a great man, but also furnishes a lasting model of an old Colonial plantation. The mansion is a massive brick structure of unusual dignity, built on the "H" plan, a survival of Elizabethan and Jacobean times. Its central hall (the bar of the H) on the main floor, is 30 feet square and is reached from the outside, by a long flight of steps. On each side of this entrance hall, is a wing containing spacious rooms, and the whole structure is topped by a multiple hipped roof, dominated by two arched groups of four chimneys each. It was built in 1731, by Colonel Thomas Lee, one time Royal Governor of Virginia, whose ancestor settled in the province in 1650. Two of Colonel Lee's sons were signers of the Declaration of Independence and his grand-daughter, Matilda Lee married General Light-Horse Harry Lee (her cousin) and here their son, Robert E. Lee was born, in 1807.

Expert Opposes Atom Monopoly

CHICAGO (AP)—Nobel Prize winner Harold C. Urey has urged giving some atomic Henry Ford a chance to create useful atomic power for Americans.

He said atomic power will come sooner if free private enterprise is set loose to work upon it. And he said if that happens he'd probably invest in a small company, betting on it to help speed along the atomic age much like Ford and others did to create the automobile age.

Dr. Urey, professor of chemistry at the Institute of Nuclear Studies in Chicago, worked on the atomic project during the war.

He told the American Chemical Society that he favors changing the Atomic Energy Act to "remove the government monopoly." He said industry and inventors should be allowed to patent their own atomic inventions or developments, and the government should sell uranium or other atomic fuels as reasonable cost.

School Aid High

LANSING (AP)—Public schools in Michigan get substantially more money from the state than the national average, the Michigan Education Journal reported. It said that 62 per cent of the public school's income in Michigan comes from state funds, compared with 45 per cent nationally.

Eggs tarnish silver due to small amounts of sulphur in the egg, which unites with silver to form silver sulfide, common form of tarnish.

SNORER'S AID—If you're having trouble sleeping because of snoring noise, Jo Horstmann, of Hemdingen, Germany, models a gadget which may help you. All the snorer has to do is find his "snoring position" and put the gadget on so that it gets bothersome when he assumes that position. The object is to force the snorer to find another way to sleep. It was invented by Albert Netow, who couldn't stand a relative's snoring.

Fair Crowds Bigger

DETROIT (AP)—Turnstiles at the Michigan State Fair counted 132,588 visitors to the fairgrounds Monday. It brought the four day total to 413,353, compared with last year's total for a similar period of 317,496.

Sherpas Climb Earth's Mightiest Mountains

WASHINGTON—Sherpa tribesmen of the Nepalese Himalayas achieved sudden fame when one of their number recently scaled Mt. Everest, but they may have worked themselves out of a job. Among this mountain-dwelling tribe, centered in a 13,000-foot-high valley near the Tibet border, mountain climbing is the chief profession, says the National Geographic Society. For 50 years Sherpas have served as porters on Himalayan expeditions, under English, Swiss, French, Italian, Japanese and Hindu leaders. With Everest finally conquered, the hillmen may wonder if full-scale assaults on the world's highest peak will continue.

Carry Great Loads

Unlike Swiss guides in the Alps, the Sherpas' main duty is to carry provisions to high altitudes. Normally they carry 60 pounds each, but they are capable of packing 100 pounds or more, even over difficult ground. They also put up tents, prepare meals, and perform other camping chores. One expedition may require 300 or more porters.

A porter's pay averages 45 cents a day. Those who carry to the higher slopes are rewarded with coveted "snow bonuses." Sirdars, or head porters, such as Tenzing Norkey who reached the top of Everest, earn slightly more than a dollar a day. Each Sherpa who carries loads to a height of 25,000 feet or above is called "tiger."

Sherpa means "man from the East." Migrating from eastern Tibet to Nepal centuries ago, Sherpas are concentrated in the Khumbu district, some 20 miles south of Everest. A narrow gorge connects the Khumbu valley with southern Nepal. To the east and west, the district is flanked by impassable mountains. To the north lies the main Himalayan range between Everest and Cho Oyu, pierced only by the 19,000-foot-high Nangpa pass.

Through this ice-bound pass—believed to be the highest pass on any trade route in the world—Sherpas laden with packs of rice, cloth and manufactured goods trek to Tingri, Tibet, to barter for salt, wool and yaks. Their early training in shouldering heavy loads at high altitudes equips them for later expedition duty.

Namene Bazar, the leading Sherpa community, straddles a 10,000-foot-high ridge. Inhabitants of its 30 whitewashed, two-story stone houses plant potatoes on the precipitous slopes, and tend yaks, sheep and goats in higher pastures.

In recent years, many Sherpa families have moved to Darjeeling, India, where they have established a small colony. Darjeeling, in the Himalayan foothills, is the starting point for many expeditions.

Sherpas are Buddhists. They have their own language but also speak Tibetan. Their dress is similar to that of their Tibetan neighbors. They wear embroidered boots, thick brown wool coats—slung around the waist like bath towels in warm weather—and gold-colored cloth hats with fur flaps to protect ears and face. Many men sport long black pigtails, sometimes artificially lengthened with yak hair. Women usually wear gaily colored aprons and some sport small black patches on their foreheads to ward away headaches.

Expedition leaders report that the Sherpa's most valuable quality, outrating even his carrying ability, is an extraordinary gaiety of spirit. His even temperament and keen sense of humor make him easy to deal with and to live with on expeditions.

Courageous, good-natured Sherpa men have only one weakness, leaders say: They are completely dominated by their wives.

Zoo Buys Seahorses And They Multiply

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (P)—Dividends came to the New Plymouth Aquarium Society two weeks after it acquired a "string" of five seahorses.

The seahorses multiplied considerably in their new aerated salt-water glass tank at the home of S. Anchor. No other instances of seahorses "foaling" in a tank are known to the society.

The seahorse method of breeding is as unusual as is the fact that these were bred in captivity. The female deposits eggs in a pouch on the male's front and he patiently nurses them until they have hatched.

WANDERING MINSTREL—It's annual festival time in Edinburgh, Scotland, and Edinburghers see their streets filled with characters from the romantic, colorful past. Donald Mork, of Boston, Mass., shows up as a strolling minstrel of by-gone days. A recent graduate of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts in London, he sings his ballads in nine languages.

HONG KONG BOY SCOUTS

HONG KONG (P)—Plans are in preparation for the erection of one of the most modern Boy Scout headquarters in the world at nearby Kowloon. The building, scheduled for completion early in 1954, will have two stories and a basement. It will have an 800-seat capacity assembly hall, a gymnasium, locker and shower rooms, library and workshops.

Russian Grass May Restore U. S. Ranges

TUCSON, Ariz. (P)—A grass introduced into the United States from Russia 50 years ago may help restore livestock ranges in Arizona and New Mexico.

The crested wheat grass has been found to offer a quick and positive means for restoring range productivity in the cooler, more moist parts of the Southwest.

Value of the grass for reseeding purposes was discovered by the Southwest Forest and Range Experiment Station here.

The experimenters found the grass can increase forage productivity of deteriorated ranges by 10 or more times in two years. Cattle grazed on the grass during the fall have gained as much as two pounds a day.

New Hampshire Has Grasshopper Bounty

CONCORD, N. H. (P)—New Hampshire, the only state in the nation with a bounty on porcupine, has another rare one—but no takers.

A statute put on the books in 1883—and never repealed—gives $1 to anyone showing his town selectman a bushel basket of grasshoppers.

But state Treasurer Alfred S. Cloues is uncertain if the bounty was ever paid or why the law was passed. But it stipulates the grasshoppers must be caught during June and July.

The meeting will be followed by a social hour, and lunch will be served.

Add a little lemon juice to buttered crumbs when you are using them as a topping for vegetables such as snap beans, frozen or canned asparagus, or cauliflower.

Wooden spoons are so useful in cooking because their handles do not get hot and they never leave marks on bowls, skillets or saucepans.

VOWS WERE SPOKEN by Miss Patricia Anne O'Neill of Green Bay and William Joseph Vachon Saturday, Sept. 5 at St. Anne's Church. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Chicken Thief Repays Debt After 18 Years

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—White Mrs. John Nagy worked in her yard, a stranger approached and said "I have come to pay for the chickens I stole." He handed her $3. It seems that 18 years earlier, when the Nagys lived on a farm, a boy had taken a few chickens.

Mrs. Nagy tried to return the $3 but the stranger refused. So she said she would "go to church and put every bit of it in the collection envelope."

One of the highlights of the weekend U. P. high school football activity was a spectacular 100-yard run by an Iron River halfback. . . With Calumet threatening on the Iron River goal line, Calumet's Fred Barry fumbled the ball and it rolled inches from the chalk mark where Jerry Gallagher scooped it up and ran the entire length of the field for a touchdown. . . Coach Harry Monson's Redskins kept their victory string alive by breaking a 6-6 tie with a minute and a half remaining in the game to edge Calumet 12-6.

The Upper Peninsula Sports Writers Association's choice as U. P. football back of the year last season is enrolled at the University of Indiana, Bloomington. . . Bob McNamara, Manistique's triple-threat halfback, left for Bloomington Sunday. The six-one, 175 pound McNamara scored 11 TDs as Manistique won seven of eight grid starts last season. He averaged 27 carries per game last season and ran up a 306-yard rushing total in one contest.

The summer sports program reached a climax in Escanaba area over the Labor Day weekend. Here are the events which were held in the area. Michigan state men's Class A and girls' Class C softball tournaments, Highland, Escanaba and Gladstone golf club championship tournaments, St. Joe-Gladstone opening football game, exhibition baseball game between Powers and Perronville and at Manistique the opening playoff game of the Bay de Noc League title series and the Stephenson-Manistique football game. Escanaba played football at Sault Ste. Marie and Bark River was at Crystal Falls. Enough?

Fr. Schneider Speaker At Softball Banquet Thursday

The annual Escanaba Softball Association banquet will be held Thursday at 6:30 at the Dells with the Rev. Fr. Stephen Schneider, pastor of St. Joseph church, giving the main address.

Softball players and managers from the teams in the three Escanaba Association leagues, American, National and Old Timers, will attend.

George Grenholm, president of the Upper Peninsula Softball Association, will be master of ceremonies. Other speakers will be Denis McGinn, who brought softball to Escanaba 25 years ago, and Bill Doucette, past president of the Association.

The Escanaba Merchants will be guests of the Association. The Merchants won the Upper Peninsula men's Class A championship and represented the U. P. in the state tournament here last weekend. Team members and managers will be honored as guests at the banquet.

Championship trophies will be presented to Harnischfeger of the American League, Clairmont Transfer of the National League and St. Thomas of the Old Timers League. St. Thomas last night defeated Delta Frame 2-0 for the

Name Kuchenberg On Softball Star Squad

Mickey Kuchenberg, flashy third baseman for the Escanaba Merchants, drew a position on the men's Class A state tournament all star softball team selected by official tournament scorers at the close of the tourney here Monday.

Grand Rapids, state champions, dominated the all-tournament selections with three players. Runnerup Bay City landed two, Pontiac two, Escanaba one and St. Joseph one. All star selections were based solely on tournament performances.

Bob Warner, who hurled Grand

Old Timers crown, Bill Doucette hurled the win while Fife Smith was on the hill for the losers.

Following the banquet and program, Stan Jensen, Association president, will take over at the Rapids to three of their four state tourney wins, landed the pitching position and his battery mate Warren Krause was named backstop. Pete VanEnenman, second baseman, was the third Grand Rapids player named to the team.

Krause Top Hitter Other positions were filled by Chet Kazmierski, Bay City first baseman; Russ Hester, Pontiac shortstop; Bill Lucas, St. Joseph left fielder; Bill VanDotehem, Bay City center fielder, and Bill Mason, Pontiac right fielder.

VanEnenman led the all star team in scoring. The Grand Rapids second baseman crossed the plate with six runs in four games. He had three hits in 12 trips and committed one error.

Top hitter on the team was Krause. Grand Rapids catcher, who poked four safeties in nine times up. He scored twice.

Kuchenberg had a pair of hits, including one of the two homers hit in the tournament, scored twice and committed one error for the Merchants who went down in the quarterfinals.

Two Classy Hurlers Warner gave up 15 hits and only four runs in 21 innings on the Grand Rapids mound. The 24-year-old chucker, who entered the tournament with a 33-4 record, walked six and fanned 18.

Running Warner a close race for pitching honors was Jack Greenwood, Bay City's colorful mound expert. Greenwood's hill record was probably even more impressive than Warner's. Here are their performances charts: (IP, innings pitched; H, hits; R, runs; W, walks; and SO, strikeouts).

IP H R W SO
Greenwood 18 14 6 3 25
Warner 21 15 4 6 18

In addition to his pitching prowess, Greenwood was one of the outstanding hitters in the tournament. At the plate 11 times, he collected four hits and scored one run. One of his hits was the only homer parked over the fence in the four-day tournament.

Kuenn Has Eye On New Record

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Brilliant young Harvey Kuenn, Detroit Tigers' shortstop, has a chance for an American League record in his first full year in the big leagues.

A bit better than a four-game pace would give Kuenn a new record for the most times at bat in one season. The University of Wisconsin product has come up to the plate 611 times and needs just 61 more appearances to top the mark set by Johnny Tobin of the St. Louis Browns in 1921.

Kuenn already leads the league in the number of hits. He has pounded out 188 safeties to 182 for Mickey Vernon, the Washington Senators' veteran first baseman who leads the league in batting with .331.

And in the batting department Kuenn ranks fifth among the league's hitters with a very respectable .308.

The Tigers can use that batting punch tonight when they face the Athletics in a two-night double-header in a crucial battle for sixth place.

Detroit, idle Tuesday holds a slim half game edge over the A's. Steve Gromek (6-7) and Al Aber (4-3) will go against the Athletics. The Tigers will face Harry Byrd (10-18) and Mario Fricano (7-10).

Former Packer Guard Pete Tinsley Is New Rock Football Coach

Pete Tinsley, former Green Bay Packer guard, will make his debut as an Upper Peninsula prep grid coach Friday afternoon when he takes his Rock football squad to Bark River.

Tinsley has been hired as football, basketball and track coach at Rock, succeeding Noel Winn. He will also teach industrial arts.

The new Rock coach was a Packer when the Green Bay football team was the scourge of professional ranks. He joined the Packers out of the University of Georgia in 1938 and was a member of the 1939 team that won the world championship. He played with Green Bay through 1945. During that span Curly Lambeau's Packers finished first four times, second three times and third three times.

Coached In South

Tinsley received his B.S. degree from Georgia and advanced credits from the University of South Carolina. He was junior varsity coach and assistant freshman mentor at Georgia, moved to a North Carolina prep school, and then coached two years at South Georgia College, Douglas, Ga., for two years. His South Georgia teams played in two bowl games, winning one and losing one.

Married to the former Bernice Dausey of Escanaba, Tinsley has two children.

At Rock, he is doing a rebuilding job with a lot of inexperienced players out for the first time.

Good Nucleus

"We've got a good nucleus in Fred Watts, center; Lewis Kulba, fullback; Jack Lund, quarterback, and Terry Hade, end," Tinsley said today after a week's practice sessions with the Rock team.

"The boys have shown lots of improvement in the past week and are looking forward to the Bark River game," the new coach stated.

In addition to Bark River, Rock will meet Powers, Gladstone Bee, Florence and John D. Pierce.

Purdue Grid Team Strong In Spite Of Heavy Losses

By DALE BURGESS

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue University's football squad looks remarkably strong for an outfit that lost eight seniors good enough to get bids to play in post season all-star games last year.

It won't have a passing combination like quarterback Dale Samuels and end Bernie Flowers of last season's Big Ten co-champions but it may be a better running team.

The Boilermakers are big and won't suffer much from the limited substitution rule.

Schmaling Rated High

Fullback Max Schmaling of Sterling, Ill., should be one of the country's best in his senior year. A 205-pound quarter miler, he plowed through opponents for seven touchdowns last fall.

Sophomore Bill Murakowski of East Chicago, Ind., whose brother Art was one of Northwestern's all-time greats, probably will be used extensively at halfback. He weighs 195.

More beef was added to the backfield by Mike Maccioli's return from the Army. He starred in the Boilermaker's 1950 victory over Notre Dame that ended a string of 39 Irish victories.

Ex-defensive Ace

Maccioli, a 180-pounder, has been playing service football. He was rated one of Purdue's top defensive performers in 1950.

Purdue's other seasoned runners include fullback Jim Reichert 191 pounds, and halfbacks Rex Brock, 160, and Ed Zembal, 164.

National League To Set New Homer Mark

NEW YORK (AP)—With 1,093 home runs already this year, National League batters need only eight more to reach the highest season's total in its 78-year history. The record of 1,100 was set in 1950.

Team home run totals: Brooklyn—192; New York—166; Cincinnati—157; Milwaukee—142; St. Louis—128; Chicago—121; Philadelphia—105 and Pittsburgh—82.

Quarterback Roy Evans lacks the graduated Samuels' reputation as a passer but he completed 15 of 38 last fall for 234 yards and one touchdown. He's a senior and will be understudied by Frankie Gutman, a six-foot sophomore of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Wakefield Starter

The only little fellow in the line will be end John Kerr of Honolulu, 167 pounds and 5 feet 11, who caught two touchdown passes last fall. Jim Wojciehowski of Wakefield, Mich., 206 and 6-3, will be on the other flank.

Purdue's line will have tackles Joe Krupa, 232 pounds, and David Whiteaker, 212; guards Fred Preziosio, 248, and Tom Bettis, 215, and center Walt Kudzik, 199. All are seasoned performers except Krupa, a sophomore.

Purdue meets powerful Michigan State Oct. 24, in Lafayette. Purdue starts at Missouri, Sept. 26; plays Notre Dame here Oct. 3, at Duke Oct. 10, Wisconsin here Oct. 17, at Illinois Oct. 31, Iowa here Nov. 7, at Ohio State Nov. 14 and at Indiana Nov. 21.

Grid Notes

CHICAGO (AP)—Midwest football briefs:

Illinois—Sophomore Em Lindbeck and veteran Elroy Falkenstein were kept busy as passing was stressed in an offensive scrimmage.

Iowa—fullback Binkey Broeder was praised by Coach Forest Evashevski. "He could be one of the better backs in the country this year," he said.

Wisconsin—Tom Tracy, sophomore halfback, received his draft notice. Don Pierce, junior tackle from Stillwater, Minn., is lost for the season with a bad knee requiring an operation.

Michigan State—Ray Eggleston, 6-2 former end, is being tried at halfback to bolster the Spartans' pass defense.

Indiana—Brock Stom, 205-pound sophomore from Ironwood, Mich., was switched from center to tackle to fill in for Bill Syvanteck, sidelined with a chronic shoulder condition.

ALL-CONQUERING State College, Pa.—(NEA)—Pennsylvania State College golf, wrestling and gymnastic teams all finished the 1953 season unbeaten.

Anderson gained his finals berth by winning on forfeit from Emmett Crepeau and beating Clarence LaCasse and Rene Robitaille.

New Grid Mentor At Western On Hot Spot

KALAMAZOO (AP)—Jack Petoskey, starting his first season as head football coach at Western Michigan College, is somewhat on the hot seat.

First, he's taking over from John Gill, who didn't have a losing season in his 11 years as head coach of the Broncos.

Second, Petoskey is changing Western's style of attack from the tricky "T" formation to the straight power of the single wing. "The change in offense is our biggest problem," Petoskey said today. "But the boys are doing well with it."

Lack Depth

"We don't have any depth, especially for our conference games, but it's a young team, improving all the time."

Petoskey, who was an assistant coach last season, has 16 letters on hand. He says there are no standouts among them, but he's looking to halfback Bruce Bosma to carry much of the offensive load.

World Series Prices Set

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers, it appears now, may play before a 2½ million dollar gate and the largest players' pool in World Series history.

This became a strong possibility Tuesday when Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and other executives decided to kick up the prices of World Series tickets.

Box seats are up from $8 to $10. Reserved seats are up from $6 to $7, and bleachers are up from $1 to $2, a 100 per cent rise. It'll still cost the same for standing room—$4.

The 1953 Series will open Wednesday, Sept. 30, in the park of the American League champion.

The Yankees, with a nine-game lead over Cleveland, open their final home stand against the Western club tonight with the tough Chicago White Sox as guests.

The Dodgers, with a 12½-game advantage over Milwaukee, swing west for a nine-game trip which begins with a night engagement at Cincinnati.

Wolve Tackle Ready To Work

By JOHN F. MAYHEW
ANN ARBOR (AP)—Art Walker, Michigan's top tackle is expected to be back in action before the week is out.

Walker, the aggressive 205-pound junior from South Haven, has caused some concern in the Wolverine football camp as a result of a leg lameness incurred during the summer months.

He has worked out daily but Coach Bennie Oosterbaan has kept him out of the contact work to protect the leg.

"We think he is ready to go now," said Oosterbaan.

Walker again took part in pre-scrimmage drills Tuesday but watched his teammate stage the scrimmage that is now a daily feature of the Wolverine camp.

After a long defensive workout, Oosterbaan set his regulars against the reserves in a half-hour scrimmage. The reserves, sparked by Jim Fox, Bob Topp, and Chuck Krahnke, at times made the going tough for the varsity.

Sports Roundup

By JOHN F. MAYHEW
ANN ARBOR (AP)—The university salt supplies took a terrific beating in the steamy-hot opening days of Michigan football practice.

Salt tablets by the dozen were gulped down by the players fighting the high 90-degree weather.

The salt replaces the natural salt that is "perspired" out of the body during hot weather exertion. Lack of salt affects the circulation and tends to produce muscle cramps.

Helping with the squad this year is Ted Topor, the able, hulking quarterback of the 1952 squad. He works in shorts and T-shirt while the players wear full practice uniforms regardless of the weather, probably to concession to his lack of physical condition. Physical condition is like cold water—hard to get into and so easy to get out.

"Lost art." That's the description Athletic Director Fritz Crisler supplies to the old football practice of stiff-arming.

"Coaches don't teach it any more," he observed at a recent Michigan practice session. "Of course, you don't see the boys shifting the ball from one arm to the other, either. And I suppose it would be mighty hard to stiff-arm a tackler with the arm in which you held the ball."

Crisler told of a recent vote taken among players on the Cornell University squad with regard to opponent preference.

Pennsylvania was first choice, with Michigan second and Princeton third.

Squad members reportedly based their choice on the fact that all three played hard, but clean football.

Flint, with five players, leads all Michigan cities in contributing to the 1953 University of Michigan squad.

Twenty-six Michigan cities sent 40 delegates to the 72-man Michigan squad.

Any combination of 10 Yankee victories and Cleveland defeats can clinch a fifth American League pennant for cagy Casey Stengel.

The doughty Dodgers need just four triumphs or a combination of Milwaukee setbacks to end whatever suspense remains in the National League.

But, when catcher Stan Lopata missed one of Johnny Lindell's knuckleballs on the third strike, Bruton scooted for first. When Lopata failed to retrieve the ball, Bill took off for second.

Johnny Logan sacrificed him to third and then Bruton scampered

The largest players' pool, limited to receipts of the first four games, was $560,562.27, collected by the Yankees and Giants in 1951.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Kansas City failed to close in on leading Toledo in the hot American Association pennant chase Tuesday night but third-place Louisville drew up to within three games of the pace.

Indianapolis blasted Toledo 6-2 for a season edge of 13-9 over the Sox and Louisville blanked Kansas City 9-0. This left the Blues trailing by two games as the teams entered the stretch to the season windup on Sunday.

The Indians picked up three unearned runs in the last of the seventh to trim Toledo. Billy Queen threw past second on a potential double play, letting one run in, and Harry Malmberg tripled to score two more.

Ray Moore scattered six hits and struck out 13 batters to lead St. Paul over Minneapolis 2-1.

Charles Loses: Retire? Man, That's Crazy Talk

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The most interesting thing about boxing is what you hear in the dressing room after a fight. Take the Harold Johnson-Ezzard Charles battle at Connie Mack Stadium Tuesday night, which the 2-to-1 underdog, Johnson, won in slashing, bruising style.

Pre-fight talk was that this was the win-or-else fight for Charles; it was the chance of a lifetime for 25-year-old Johnson.

The winner was going to get the next crack at the heavyweight title.

Will Fight Again
After the fight, Charles, his co-

Dr. Feurig should be ideally suited for the job because he played pro football for three years with the Green Bay Packers.

He went out of high school at Seymour, Wis., where he was a three letter winner in football, track and basketball and started playing for the pros at the tender age of 18.

Three-Year Packer
Dr. Feurig was an end for the Packers in 1933, 1934 and 1935. During his first two years of play, the Packers were runners-up to the league champions.

He served as team physician for the University of Missouri football squad for a year before coming to Michigan State.

Dr. Feurig was asked for his impressions of the Spartans.

"They are a lot lighter than I expected the national champions to be," he said. "That's one thing that surprised me. But they seem to have a tremendous desire to play and win."

"Watching them in practice, I find they play a much faster and a harder-charging game than we're accustomed to in the Big Seven. They are exceedingly fast and aggressive."

Spartan Backs Not Too Hefty

By ROBERT E. VOGES
EAST LANSING (AP)—"My boy Mike," said Michigan State football boss Biggie Munn, "weighs as much as Leroy Bolden or Evan Slonac do."

This might be a slight exaggeration since Mike, a tough and sturdy youngster, is only 12 years old.

Fullback Slonac is listed at 170 pounds and Bolden weighs 167.

It serves to illustrate, however, the concern the coaches feel about the lightweight backfield at Michigan State this fall.

In scrimmages sessions this week, coaches are concentrating on speed and a quick get-away to try to compensate for the weight the backs lack.

Several injuries resulted from Tuesday's hour-long scrimmage but none appeared to be too serious.

Travis Bugbs, sophomore back from East Chicago, was butted in the face by a helmet and was knocked groggy for about five minutes. He was helped off the field with a badly cut lip and bruises face.

Dick Davidson, sophomore end from East Lansing, limped out with a painful knee bruise after a pile-up.

Expect Renewal Of Rose Bowl Contract
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Renewal of the Rose Bowl contract is expected to be signed here today by representatives of the Big Ten and Pacific Coast Conferences.

The present pact expires Jan. 1. A three-year renewal has been agreed upon.

the split T and the spread.

"Their key man is a good, faking quarterback," he said. "The receivers spread all over the field and the quarterback looks for a man in the open to throw to."

Dr. Feurig said the Michigan State squad reported back to practice in excellent physical condition.

"We've had only minor injuries so far," he said, "but I agree with the coaches that two-way football is likely to mean more injuries this fall. An offensive player, particularly, isn't used to the pounding he will have to take on the defense."

Dr. Feurig was asked to compare the pro teams of the 1930s with the present professionals.

No Comparison
"We wouldn't hold a candle to the teams in the league now," he said. "There's no comparison. I think some of the good college teams of today could have walloped us."

"We played more for fun than anything else in those days," he recalled. "Now football has become a science and an art. The players strive to be perfectionists."

Dr. Feurig, 37, was a major in the Army medical corps during World War II, serving four and a half years in North Africa, Italy and the China-Burma-India command.

He practiced at Wauwatosa, Wis., before accepting the position as team physician at Missouri.

GLADSTONE

Enrollment High As Public School Opens

What probably will be a record enrollment in the Gladstone Public School System was indicated yesterday, it was learned from Supt. Wallace C. Cameron, although no actual figures could be obtained.

The number of pupils in the lower and upper grades of the primary department was particularly heavy while in the High School it was below that of the past several years.

This was due to the 'pipeliners' in the city and will adjust itself later.

Jeannine B. Dahn Bride Saturday Of Elburn Man

Pastel colored gladioli graced the altars of St. Joseph church, Perkins, for the marriage on Saturday of Miss Jeannine Beverly Dahn and Russell H. Willyard. Rev. Fr. Charles Daniels was celebrant of the 10 a. m., nuptial mass. The Misses Kathleen Depuydt and Eunice Peterson, organists, played the traditional processional and recessional marches.

The bride was escorted up the white carpeted aisle on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She was lovely in a gown of white chantilly lace over satin designed with a sweetheart neckline. The fitted bodice was outlined at the neckline with a scalloped edging and stand-up collar in the back. Lace covered buttons extended below the waistline and long sleeves tapered to a point at the wrist. The skirt formed a chapel train. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a coronet crown covered with lace the same as the dress, and edged with seed pearls and two tiny rhinestones encircled with pearls adorned the crown. She carried an arm bouquet of white gladioli and carnations centered with a corsage of white carnations.

Her only attendant was a close friend, Miss Mary Jean Richards. She wore a cottillion blue strapless gown fashioned with a lace top and lace jacket, edged with pleated ruffling. The skirt had double layers of net over satin. Pink gladioli and carnations formed her bouquet.

The little flower girl, Alice Eagle, was dressed as a miniature bride and carried a basket of assorted flowers with shower streamers of blue knotted satin ribbon.

Elmer B. Dahn, brother of the bride, served as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Dahn chose a navy blue acetate dress trimmed with white lace cuffs. A navy blue velvet hat and corresponding accessories with a corsage of white baby mums and deep red roses completed her ensemble. The bridegroom's mother wore an aqua crepe and lace dress with a black velvet hat and accessories. Bronze mums formed her corsage.

A wedding dinner was served at the bride's parental home with covers laid for 35 guests. Two bouquets of pink, blue and white flowers were placed at each end of the table. A reception was held in the Community hall at Brampton. The four tiered wedding cake with crystal blue candle holders and white candles adorned the main table. Mrs. Ralph Eagle and Mrs. Fred Neuhoff served at the dinner and reception assisted by Patty and Judith Eagle, Mrs. Gordon Huttie, Mrs. Zeph Arvey and Mrs. Wilfred Groleau.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer A. Dahn, Brampton, is a graduate of Gladstone High School, class of '48, and of St. Anthony's School of Nursing, Rockford, Ill., class of 1951. She served from August 1952 to June, 1953 with the Red Cross in polio work. At the present time she is engaged in surgical work at the Community Hospital in Geneva, Ill.

The bridegroom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Willyard, Elburn, Ill., attended Elburn High School and served in the Army Engineering Corps for six years. During that time he served in Germany, Korea and Japan and the United States. He was discharged in June 1952 and is now employed with Geneva Farm Equipment, Geneva, Ill.

For their wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride wore a navy blue feather two piece suit with white accessories. The corsage which centered her bridal bouquet adorned her shoulder.

They will be at home at 222 Campbell St., Geneva, Ill., after September 20.

Out-of-town guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Willyard, son Albert and daughters Lois and Ruth, Elburn, Ill., John Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Albion Olson, Maple Park, Ill., E. C. Tupper, Pueblo, Colo., Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tupper, Dyer, Ind., Mrs. Ada Dahn and daughter Rineita, Mr. and Mrs. Findley Gustafson, Zion, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Elmer A. Dahn, Mr. and Mrs. John Stepowski, Milwaukee, Wis., Arthur and Donald Pickard, Detroit; Mrs. Mae Needham, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Dahn, Escanaba, Mrs. Alma Robinson, Gladstone.

As an indication there are three first grades with first day enrollments of 22, 32 and 32 pupils respectively. In the second grades are 34 and 32 pupils, while there are 40 in the third.

Books were distributed yesterday and classes started and all went fairly smooth for an opening day.

Mrs. Myron Goodman has accepted the position of kindergarten teacher in the Buckeye School, a post not filled until yesterday.

New Drugs Beat Apple Disease

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Control over "fireblight"—one of the worst bacterial plagues of apples and pears—appears within reach for the first time, a group of scientists reported Monday.

They said the "wonder drugs" streptomycin and terramycin showed evidence of being the long-sought weapons against this malady "which can make an apple or pear orchard look as though it had been scorched by fire."

The scientists declared the disease has struck heavily at one time or another in all sections of the country where apples are grown. And one of them said, "Fireblight has more or less forced the pear out of existence in the central part of the United States."

Dr. Robert N. Goodman of the University of Missouri and Prof. H. C. Young and Associate Prof. H. F. Winter of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station made the statements at a news conference during the annual meeting of the American Institute of Biological Sciences convention at the University of Wisconsin.

Goodman had just reported to the AIBS that a combination of the two wonder drugs in a spray had completely protected all of some 60 Jonathan apple trees in a test he conducted.

The Ohio scientists said that in recent tests of their own, streptomycin alone protected up to 80 per cent. And these results, they said, compare with an effectiveness of only 56 per cent for the best chemical treatment previously available against fireblight.

Italian Flags Fly Over Free Trieste

TRIESTE, Free Territory (AP)—Residents of this Adriatic port city, claimed by both Italy and Yugoslavia, decorated their homes and public buildings Monday with Italian flags. The occasion was the 10th anniversary of Italy's capitulation to the Allies in World War II.

The semi-official Italian news agency Ansa explained that the demonstration was to express opposition to Yugoslav President Marshal Tito's Sunday proposal for internationalizing the city and outright cession of Yugoslav-occupied zone B of the Free Territory. Ansa said the Trieste residents wanted to show "the true face of this land, absurdly contested."

Blue Comb Disease Hits Chicken Flocks

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan poultrymen were warned that blue comb disease of chickens is on the upswing in this state.

Dr. Ralph C. Belding, poultry pathologist at Michigan State College, said the disease has hit most parts of the state but is most severe in southwestern Michigan. The disease cuts egg output rapidly. He said the best preventative is to provide plenty of shade and fresh water for a flock.

A Little Effort Now Preserves Toys Until Next Season

A thrifty-wise homemaker properly stores away the plastic swimming hole when summer reaches its end. She knows that a little effort now is a money-saver come next summer.

By KAY SHERWOOD
Nea Staff Writer

Prompt attention to proper storage of summer's play gear pays off in protection of the equipment you'll set up again next summer.

Allowed to lie unused and empty in the yard, plastic play ponds, for example, invite sticks, dirt and stones that gouge holes in the material.

Inflatable animals and balls tossed around after their watery homes are gone are almost certain to be punctured.

I like to speed up the chore by having specific storage space cleared and ready for the gear. Plastic equipment can be stored almost anywhere except near a hot radiator.

To clean up the play pond before it's stored, experts recommend scrubbing the pond with a long handled brush or broom while there is water in it. I dump in mild soap flakes to help erase the dirt and stubborn spots.

Drain the pond by pressing down on one side until most of the water has run out, then tip it over and get the remaining water out of the cracks.

Wipe off the plastic and let it sun until it's thoroughly dry. Talcum powder or cornstarch sprinkled over the surface will prevent sticking.

When you fold the deflated pond, smooth out as many wrinkles as you can. Don't forget to tape the cork to a top section.

Because plastic gear can be cracked easily if mishandled when pulled out of storage, you might clip this reminder to the pond, too:

Let the folded pool warm up in the sun for several hours before you unfold it. After it's unfolded, let it stand another day in the sun before filling.

You can hasten the process which restores the pliability to the plastic by soaking the folded plastic in a tub of lukewarm water until it's soft.

Metal supports for swings and see-saws will survive the wintery damp better if the joints and bars are given a coat of grease. Wooden or belt swing seats and teeter-totters should be unhooked and stored under cover to avoid warping and cracking.

Landlubbers may say it's a mean way to make a living, but Andreas Nissen, Rantum's shore bailiff, only shrugs and says "Somebody's death is somebody's bread."

Nissen's cottage, built two centuries ago and shipshape from thatched roof to tarred cellar, is solid evidence of the days when beachcombing was a really lucrative enterprise. Every part of its dark sturdy woodwork has a story of its own. A medieval figurehead over the gable window was sawed off the bow of an ill-fated Dutch merchant ship.

But "the fat years of beachcombing are gone forever," complains Frau Voltjes of Langeog, the only woman among West Germany's 200 shore bailiffs.

The rewards for Rantum and its sister communities have been diminishing steadily since steamship replaced sailing vessels.

"When a modern steel ship goes to the bottom the odds are she takes her cargo along," Frau Voltjes says. "Only in rare cases does the vessel break up and spill her load."

Gone are the days when unscrupulous beachcombers set up false beach fires to lure ships on the shoals and no longer can a beachcomber rightly claim as his own the goods he finds washed up on shore. He is bound by law to hand whatever he finds over to the

Sylt Island Village Living On Flotsam

By ULRICH GRUDINSKI

RANTUM-SYLT, Germany (AP)—The tragic harvest of shipwreck at sea goes into the thatched roof cottages of this tiny fishing village on the north German island of Sylt.

Window shutters here are made of ship planks washed ashore. Carved figureheads of forgotten three-masters and ancient brass cabin lanterns decorate its driftwood homes.

For centuries this small community behind the North Sea dikes has lived on the flotsam of shipwreck. After heavy gales the young and old of Rantum walk the windswept beaches looking for whatever the sea has cast up with the tide.

Fat Years Gone

Landlubbers may say it's a mean way to make a living, but Andreas Nissen, Rantum's shore bailiff, only shrugs and says "Somebody's death is somebody's bread."

Gone are the days when unscrupulous beachcombers set up false beach fires to lure ships on the shoals and no longer can a beachcomber rightly claim as his own the goods he finds washed up on shore. He is bound by law to hand whatever he finds over to the shore bailiff.

The bailiff stores flotsam in a shed and gives public notice. If the owner does not appear the goods are sold at auction. The receipts go to the state treasury and the beachcomber gets a small cut.

In the bailiff's shed at Rantum no ware bales of sticky rubber, barrels of English ale, sulphuric acid, liquid ammonia, cases of rancid butter, cans of lard, mincing timber and lots of unripe bananas.
